Firing all salvos

THE might have added a couple of extra 'E's and kicked out the 'I' from their name but as far as music goes Agni or Agnee as they are now known as have barely changed and they still hold the distinction of being one of the premier rock bands in the nation. True to their name and reputation Agnee, who were in the city on Sunday to perform at CREAZI- a three-day national festival organised by the Indira School of Communication, Wakad set the stage on fire with their deep vocals and unique style of fusing music and creating new sounds. The three-day festival that began on February 13 culminated with the performance on Sunday. The band comprising of Mohan on guitars and lead vocals, Koko on lead guitars and backing vocals and Arijit on bass performed songs from their album Agnee that was released last year. Some of the songs that they sang included Rock on, Shiv Shankaray and the ever-popular Sadho Re. Speaking about their songs, Mohan says, "Our songs incorporate a heady mix of classical, western rock, blues and alternative rock influences. Since all three of us are from varied music schools, our diverse range is portrayed in our songs."
